with assaulting Lawyer Howe Totten with intent to kill, was released this afternoon on $3,000 bail. Ex-Congressman Charles H. Turner, of New York, appeared in his behalf, and succeeded in postponing the hearing until to-morrow morning.

Schoofey is a member of a well known Greek family and came from San Francisco some years since. His young wife is now lying seriously ill at the Woman's Hospital, New York.

It is predicted by those who are familiar with the matters which led up to the assault on Totten that the case will never be brought to trial, as the interests of all parties concerned will be to have the matter dropped as quickly and as quietly as possible. It is alleged that Totten is in possession of certain pictures and papers which Schoofey had not only a right to demand, but would have been justified in restorting to any means to obtain possession of. Totten was an acquaintance of Mrs. Schoofey before her recent marriage.

At Miss Small's house the performance of the young warriors created a commotion. When that young woman saw them instead of her friend McClug she was amazed. Then as the indicrous side of the "search for a deserter" struck her, she laughed at the bedraggled but sternly earnest young militianen. Various other places were visited in a vain search, and finally the scouts returned to their armory.

Under the New Jersey State law it was declared that McClurg's absence made him liable to all the penalties visited upon a deserter, and if he and the other absentees from Companies C and D fail to appear for inspection by to-night they will be tried by court martial.
